Torsion-Testing Machine. One of the interesting exhibits at the San Francisco exposition is a machine for testing the twisting strength of steel, which records autographically the torsion curve of the piece of metal under test. Heretofore this measurement has been calculated, with more or less accuracy, by the person making the test. It has a capacity of 250,000 inch pounds, and will test specimens ranging from one-eighth of an inch to two and a half inches in diameter, and of any length up to eight feet.

The inventor of the Circular Saw. Some discussion appeared recently in several British technical publications as to who invented the circular saw, and the claim is made that it was invented and used by a wood turner named Murray at Mansfield, England, about the year 1820. The first saw is described as having been about six inches in diameter, and was undoubtedly used on a wood turning lathe operated by water power. James Murray, the inventor, is said to have been the son of "Old Joe Murray," the favorite servant of Lord Byron.

Simple Case of Observation. "Sometimes a very simple thing will clearly reveal a man's intentions," said Professor Fate. "For instance, you can tell by the way he carries his suitcase whether he is going on a journey or returning from one. When he is going away he carries it toward the railway station, and when he is coming home he carries it away from the station."—Kansas City Star.

ers were losing from one-third to two-thirds of the pigs that were born alive. Last year a man with 14 sows raised to weaning time only 15 pigs, while his neighbor, who used less feed, but spent every hour with his sows during the farrowing time, raised an average of over eight pigs to a litter from a large herd of sows.

Now Intrigue Means to Embarrass. Words jump between antiquity and fashion. It was but a few years ago that "obscure" came into constant use by the literary. And now "intrigue" is a corpse dug up from the past and in constant use. "It intrigues me" is the phrase. And in dictionaries the sense of "intriguing" to "embarrass" is marked obsolete. It's most emphatically alive.
